Fountain Square Management Group to stage Movie Night
Saturdays on the Square now through September 1

CINCINNATI, June 29, 2007 – From now until Saturday, September 1, the Fountain Square Management Group (FSMG) will show two movies for free on Saturday night on Fountain Square. Fans can look forward to a Harry Potter double feature on July 21, the release date for Book Seven in the popular series, and the pairing of Finding Nemo and Jaws during Beach Weekend on September 1.

"Our aim is to make the Square a center of affordable family fun," said Bill Donabedian, Managing Director of Fountain Square. "Think of this as a free drive-in without the cars." The summer-long series is presented by Time Warner Cable and the first film will start at 8 pm each Saturday. The Square's snack bar, which includes adult beverages among its offerings, will be open during the showings.

As if there weren't enough Superheroes in our town, this week's movies are The Incredibles and Batman. To see what movies are planned for subsequent Saturdays, visit www.myfountainsquare.com and check the event calendar in the upper right corner.
